

Parting words

- Deep learning architectures are definitely not biologically plausible, but they do take ideas from our understanding of the brain.
- We haven't talked about learning... is backprop biologically plausible?
- Does all learning need to involve gradients?