Parting words

- Deep learning architectures are definitely not biologically plausible, but they do take ideas from our understanding of the brain.

- We haven't talked about learning… is backprop biologically plausible?

  - Does all learning need to involve gradients?